

8th Annual Oxford Neuroscience Symposium 22 March 2017

Mathematical Institute, Andrew Wiles Building, University of Oxford

08.15	Registration opens
09.00	Welcome Professor Alastair Buchan, Head of Medical Sciences Division and Dean of the Medical School Professor Kia Nobre, Chair Oxford Neuroscience Strategy Committee
09.10	Gene regulatory networks underlying human neural induction Professor Noel Buckley, Department of Psychiatry
09.30	How to set your circadian clock Dr Aarti Jagannath, Nuffield Department of Clinical Neurosciences
09.50	An interoceptive account of ill-health Dr Geoff Bird, Department of Experimental Psychology
10.10	Temporal coordination of cortical neuronal activity by two classes of subcortical GABAergic projection neurons Dr Tim Viney, Department of Pharmacology
10.30	Coffee
11.30	Cortical layer 6b neurons selectively innervate higher order nuclei in the thalamus Dr Anna Hoerder-Suabedissen, Department of Physiology Anatomy and Genetics
11.50	It's all in your head: How we construct the sensation of pain Associate Professor Katja Wiech, Nuffield Department of Clinical Neurosciences
12.10	Using intergroup contact to promote social integration: From neighbourhoods to neurones? Professor Miles Hewstone, Department of Experimental Psychology
12.30	Lunch
14.00	Neural circuitry coordinating male copulation Professor Stephen Goodwin, Department of Physiology Anatomy and Genetics
14.20	Unravelling the heterogeneity of multiple sclerosis with metabolomics Professor Daniel Anthony, Department of Pharmacology
14.40	Coffee
15.40	Therapeutically-relevant immunology in autoimmune neurological disease Associate Professor Sarosh Irani, Nuffield Department of Clinical Neurosciences
16.00	The crisis in adolescent mental health- is the answer in schools? Associate Professor Mina Fazel, Department of Psychiatry
16.20	Awards Presentation
16.30	Guest Lecture - Ways of Thinking: from Crows to Children and Back Again Nicola Clayton FRS, Professor of Comparative Cognition, Department of Psychology, University of Cambridge
17.30	Drinks Reception